vs.

Cause No. 2:14-CV-00246-GBW-LAM

DAVID BROWN,

Defendant.

DEFENDANT DAVID BROWN'S MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER AND SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM BRIEF

COMES NOW Defendant David Brown ("Defendant"), by and through his counsel of record, Civerolo, Gralow Hill & Curtis, P.A. (Lance D. Richards, Esq. and Megan Day Hill, Esq.) and moves this Court, pursuant to Rule 26 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, for a Protective Order, protecting his medical records and information, mental health records and information, social security records and information, pharmaceutical records and information, employment records and financial records and information from discovery efforts in this case. Prior to filing, Defendant Brown conferred and sought to resolve these matters without Court intervention. D.N.M. LR-Civ. 7.1(a). As grounds for this Motion for Protective Order, Defendant Brown submits the following Memorandum Brief:

INTRODUCTION

On June 30, 2013, Defendant Brown, a sixty (60) year old farmer and volunteer firefighter, was attacked by the decedent, Max Allen. As Defendant Brown drove by, Mr. Allen, a man with a long history of mental illness, ran in front of the pickup, forcing it to stop.

Mr. Allen than jumped on the running board of the pickup. Mr. Allen saw that Defendant Brown had a firearm on his lap and reached through the open window to take it. The pickup traveled approximately 1,800 feet as the two men struggled for control of the gun. Defendant Brown, fearing for his life and acting in self-defense, pulled the trigger and shot Mr. Allen in the stomach. A Clovis grand jury acquitted Defendant Brown and found no wrongdoing on his part.

Plaintiff Dolores Allen, individually, as personal representative of the Estate of her brother, Max Allen, filed this wrongful death lawsuit, alleging that Defendant Brown negligently shot her brother. Plaintiff Dolores Allen also brings a loss of consortium claim for emotional distress and loss of the decedent's guidance in the management of her property in Curry County, New Mexico.

In the instant Motion for Protective Order, Defendant Brown asks this Court for an Order of Protection, protecting him from unwarranted invasion of privacy and harassing discovery intrusion. More specifically, as discussed in greater detail below, Plaintiff seeks Defendant Brown's medical records, mental health records, social security records, pharmaceutical records, employment records and financial records. These requests exceed the scope of permissible discovery, invade his reasonable expectation of privacy and seek privileged documents.

ARGUMENT

I. DEFENDANT BROWN'S MEDICAL INFORMATION AND RECORDS ARE PRIVILEGED, CONFIDENTIAL, PRIVATE AND IRRELEVANT.

In the instant case, Plaintiff seeks a HIPAA medical authorization, allowing access to all of Defendant Brown's medical records from January 1, 2003 to July 1, 2014. More specifically, Plaintiff served the following request for production:

REQUEST NO. 1: Please produce an executed original of the attached HIPAA compliant Authorization to Disclose Protected Health Information – Medical Records – for David Brown executed by David Brown.

RESPONSE:

(See e.g. Plaintiff's First Request for Production to Defendant Brown No. 1, attached hereto as Exhibit A). Good cause exists to protect Defendant Brown from this discovery because his health is not at issue in this case. Not only is the information requested irrelevant, Defendant Brown's medical records are confidential, private and protected by the physician-patient privilege.

"Rule 501 of the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that state law supplies the rule of decision on privilege in diversity cases." Frontier Refining Inc. v. Gorman-Rupp Company, Inc., 136 F.3d 695, 699 (10th Cir. 1998). New Mexico Rules of Evidence set forth a general rule of privilege for confidential physician-patient communications. SCRA 11-504(B). An exception to the privilege exists where the communications are relevant to an issue of the physical, mental or emotional condition of the patient "in any proceeding in which the patient relies upon the condition as an element of the patient's claim or defense . . . ." SCRA 11-504(D)(3).

A Protective Order should further be entered protecting Defendant Brown's medical information because it is irrelevant and not the subject of any claim or defense. The thrust of Plaintiff's Complaint is that, "Defendant had a weapon which was negligently discharged, hitting Max Allen and killing him." (See Complaint at ¶ 9). Plaintiff's Complaint does not allege that Defendant Brown suffered from any medical issue that caused or contributed to the shooting. In addition, Defendant Brown's medical information and history is further irrelevant because he is not asserting a claim for damages and has not placed his medical condition at issue by virtue of any defense.

II. DEFENDANT BROWN'S MENTAL HEALTH RECORDS AND INFORMATION ARE PRIVILEGED, CONFIDENTIAL, PRIVATE AND IRRELEVANT.

Plaintiff next seeks a HIPAA medical authorization, allowing access to all of Defendant Brown's mental health records:

REQUEST NO. 2: Please produce an executed original of the attached HIPAA compliant Authorization to Disclose Protected Health Information – Mental Health Records – for David Brown.

RESPONSE:

(See e.g. Plaintiff's First Request for Production to Defendant Brown No. 2, attached hereto as Exhibit A). Good cause exists to protect Defendant Brown from this discovery because his mental health is not at issue in this case. Not only is the information requested irrelevant, Defendant Brown's mental health records are confidential, private and protected by the psychotherapist-patient privilege.

The United States Supreme Court outlined the federal psychotherapist privilege in Jaffee v. Redmond, et al., 518 U.S. 1 (1996). The Court reasoned that the psychotherapist-patient privilege protected the private interest of confidential communication between patient and therapist and the public interest in promoting the "mental health of our citizenry." Id. at 11. The Tenth Circuit has ruled that the holding in Jaffee "is that the privilege is not rooted in any constitutional right of privacy but in a public good which overrides the quest for relevant evidence; the privilege is not subject to a 'balancing component' . . . and it covers confidential communications to licensed psychiatrists, psychologists, and clinical social workers whose . . . 'counseling sessions serve the same public goals.'" United States v. Glass, II, 133 F.3d 1356, 1358-59 (10th Cir. 1998) (internal citations omitted).

The Supreme Court reasoned the federal courts should “recognize a psychotherapist privilege under Rule 501” because “all 50 states and the District of Columbia have enacted into law some form of psychotherapist privilege.” Jaffee, 518 U.S. at 12. New Mexico’s psychotherapist-patient privilege, for example, provides that:

[a] patient has a privilege to refuse to disclose and to prevent any other person from disclosing confidential communications, made for the purposes of diagnoses or treatment of the patient’s physical, mental or emotional condition . . . among the patient, the patient’s physician or psychotherapist, or persons who are participating in the diagnosis or treatment under the direction of the physician or psychotherapist, including members of the patient’s family.

Lara v. City of Albuquerque, 126 N.M. 455, 458 (N.M. Ct. App. 1998) (citing Rule 11-504(B) N.M.R.A. 1998). In evaluating the benefits of enforcing the privilege against the need to obtain crucial evidence, the Supreme Court explained:

In contrast to the significant public and private interests supporting recognition of the privilege, the likely evidentiary benefit that would result from the denial of the privilege is modest. If the privilege were rejected, confidential conversations between psychotherapists and their patients would surely be chilled, particularly when it is obvious that the circumstances that give rise to the need for treatment will probably result in litigation. Without a privilege, much of the desirable evidence to which litigants such as petitioner seek access--for example, admissions against interest by a party--is unlikely to come into being. This unspoken ‘evidence’ will therefore serve no greater truth-seeking function than if it had been spoken and privileged.

Id. at 11-12.

Defendant Brown should not be forced to divulge any mental health records he may have simply because he is a defendant in a lawsuit. Mental health records are often sensitive in nature. When such private matters are disseminated, they can cause a party to suffer embarrassment. “The Court may grant a protective order when it is necessary to ‘protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense.’” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c). As the Supreme Court recognized, maintaining the confidentiality of this information serves important public interests. Further, as noted above, there is no evidence, suggestion or allegation that Defendant Brown suffered from any mental health issue that caused or contributed to the incident.

III. DEFENDANT BROWN'S SOCIAL SECURITY RECORDS AND INFORMATION ARE PRIVILEGED, CONFIDENTIAL, PRIVATE AND IRRELEVANT.

Plaintiff next seeks a release, allowing access to all of Defendant Brown's social security records:

REQUEST NO. 3: Please produce an executed original of the attached Social Security Administration Consent for Release of Information for David Brown.

RESPONSE:

(See e.g. Plaintiff's First Request for Production to Defendant Brown No. 3, attached hereto as Exhibit A). Good cause exists to protect Defendant Brown from this discovery because his social security records may contain not only privileged medical information, but also confidential, earnings information. As noted earlier, Defendant Brown's medical history is protected by the physician-patient privilege and he incorporates all the arguments set forth above. Further, Defendant Brown's past earning information is confidential, private and irrelevant. See e.g. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1) ("[p]arties may obtain discovery regarding any non-privileged matter that is relevant to the claim or defense. . . ."). Defendant Brown's historic earnings bear no relationship to the issues in this lawsuit. In our system of jurisprudence, litigants stand as equals before the law. A defendant's liability is determined from the facts and law of the particular case--- not from his ability to satisfy a judgment.

IV. DEFENDANT BROWN'S PHAMACEUTICAL RECORDS AND INFORMATION ARE PRIVILEGED, CONFIDENTIAL, PRIVATE AND IRRELEVANT.

Plaintiff next seeks a release, allowing access to all of Defendant Brown's pharmaceutical records:

REQUEST NO. 4: Please produce an executed original of the attached Authorization to Release Pharmaceutical Records for David Brown.

RESPONSE:

(See e.g. Plaintiff's First Request for Production to Defendant Brown No. 4, attached hereto as Exhibit A). Good cause exists to protect Defendant Brown from being forced to disclose his privileged medical information. It is well established that discovery is not without limits. Koch v. Koch Indus., Inc., 203 F.3d 1202, 1238 (10th Cir. 2000). A defendant has a right of privacy and right to be free from unwarranted or intrusive inquiries into private matters. See, e.g., Griswold v. Connecticut, 381 U.S. 479, 484 (1965)

V. DEFENDANT BROWN'S EMPLOYMENT AND PERSONNEL RECORDS ARE CONFIDENTIAL, IRRELEVANT AND IMMUNE FROM DISCOVERY.

Plaintiff next seeks a release, allowing access to all of Defendant Brown's employment and personnel records:

REQUEST NO. 5: Please produce an executed original of the attached Authority to Release Employment and Personnel Records and Written Information for David Brown.

RESPONSE:

(See e.g. Plaintiff's First Request for Production to Defendant Brown No. 5, attached hereto as Exhibit A). Good cause exists to protect Defendant Brown from being forced to disclose his privileged employment information because these records bear no nexus to this lawsuit or the allegations in the Complaint. There is no suggestion that, at the time of the shooting, Defendant Brown was in the course and scope of his employment for another. On the contrary, Defendant Brown was a self-employed farmer. Thus, it is unclear how Plaintiff intends to use an employment and personnel record release she seeks. The complete absence of any connection between the discovery sought and this case illustrates the privacy problem. As one federal court noted:

While the defendant will be made to answer in open court to allegations in the complaint, this defendant, just like any other defendant in a civil action, no matter how high or low his or her status, Clinton v. Jones, 520 U.S. 681, 688, 117 S.Ct. 1636, 137 L.Ed.2d 945 (1997) (citing Jones v. Clinton, 72 F.3d 1354, 1358 (8th Cir.1996)), does not surrender all privacy rights ipso facto merely by being named as a defendant in a lawsuit.

Constand v. Cosby, 232 F.R.D. 494, 499 (E.D.Pa.,2006). A defendant is not required to surrender his privacy and allow plaintiff to inspect every confidential record obtained over a lifetime, especially in the absence of any demonstrated relevance or compelling need.

VI. DEFENDANT BROWN'S TAX RETURNS ARE CONFIDENTIAL, IRRELEVANT, OVERLY BROAD AND IMMUNE FROM DISCOVERY.

Plaintiff finally seeks state and federal income tax returns for Defendant Brown and Bar 7 Cattle Company:

REQUEST NO. 6: Please produce David Brown's and Bar 7 Cattle Company's state and federal income tax returns for the past five (5) years. If returns are not available for a particular year, produce all documents in your possession or control reflecting any income earned by David Brown and Bar 7 Cattle Company during that year.

RESPONSE:

(See e.g. Plaintiff's First Request for Production to Defendant Brown No. 6, attached hereto as Exhibit A). Good cause exists to enter a Protective Order because, first, Bar 7 Cattle Company is not a party to this lawsuit. Not only is Plaintiff seeking information from a non-party, the request also seeks confidential, private, irrelevant and highly sensitive information from this individual Defendant.

It is well established that "courts do not favor compelling production of tax returns." See e.g. Warren, et. al. v. Campbell Farming, United States District for the District of New Mexico, Civil No. 05-441 JP/RLP. In this district, a two-pronged test has been developed to properly balance the liberal scope of discovery and the policy favoring the confidentiality of tax returns. Id. citing Hilt v. SFC Inc., 170 F.R.D. 182, 189 (D. Kan. 1997). First, the returns must be relevant to the subject matter of the action, and second, there must be a "compelling need for the returns because the information contained therein is not otherwise readily obtainable.” The burden of proof is on the party seeking production to show relevancy. Once that showing is made, the burden shifts to the party opposing production to show the information sought is readily obtainable from other sources. Id., citing Hilt v. SFC Inc., 170 F.R.D. 182, 189 (D. Kan. 1997).

Defendant Brown’s tax returns from the last five years bear no relationship to this lawsuit. Defendant Brown is not claiming any lost wages or lost earning capacity as a result of the decedent’s attack. Defendant Brown’s historical finances are not relevant to any issue. See e.g. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1) (“[p]arties may obtain discovery regarding any non-privileged matter that is relevant to the claim or defense. . . .”).

Plaintiff suggests that this financial information might be relevant to her claim for punitive damages. This argument must be rejected because, first, Plaintiff seeks five years of tax returns. The request is overly broad, burdensome and irrelevant to the issue of punitive damages. While a defendant’s present net worth could be an important factor for the jury to consider in determining an amount of punitive damages after a prima facie showing is made, a defendant’s worth from some years ago is not relevant. In Cincinnati Insurance Co. v. Clark, 1992 WL 34128 (E.D. Pa. Feb. 19, 1992), the court addressed a similar issue and found that the pertinent issue is defendant’s present net worth, not the defendant’s net worth from years ago. Thus, in Cincinnati Insurance Co., the court required defendant to produce financial information, but limited the request to defendant’s present net worth. Id. at 2.

Further, before a defendant’s present net worth may be discovered, a plaintiff must make a prima facie showing of entitlement to punitive damages. Courts and commentators recognize that requiring a prima facie showing before discovery protects the defendant from an unwarranted invasion of privacy and harassment. James McLoughlin, NECESSITY OF DETERMINATION OR SHOWING OF LIABILITY FOR PUNITIVE DAMAGES BEFORE DISCOVERY OR RECEPTION OF EVIDENCE OF DEFENDANT'S WEALTH, 32 A.L.R.4th 432 (1984). Such a requirement protects a litigant's right to privacy See also John Does I-VI v. Yogi, 110 F.R.D. 629, 633 (D.D.C.1986) (discovery of financial status should not be turned over until necessary to prove up punitive damages); Davis v. Ross, 107 F.R.D. 326, 327-28 (S.D.N.Y.1985) (court holds it is required to follow state court rule barring discovery of net worth until the trier of fact finds that the plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages); Skinner v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 38 Fed.R.Serv.2d 1194, 1195 (D.D.C.1984) (discovery not permitted in absence of a prima facie showing of punitive damages); Chenoweth v. Schaaf, 98 F.R.D. 587, 589-90 (W.D.Pa.1983) (discovery barred absent allegations in complaint of facts that demonstrate a "real possibility" that punitive damages will be at issue); Rupe v. Fourman, 532 F.Supp. 344, 350-51 (S.D.Ohio 1981) (in a bifurcated trial, discovery of personal financial status for punitive damages claim not permitted unless and until defendant's liability established).

WHEREFORE, Defendant Brown moves this Court for an Order protecting his medical records and information, mental health records and information, social security records and information, pharmaceutical records and information, employment and personnel records information, and financial records and information from discovery efforts in this case and for such other relief as the Court deems just and proper.
